Frances and the team at Belladonna have totally revamped their showroom to make every bride feel comfortable and relaxed when making that very important decision for her special day. She is delighted to announce some new designers added to their collection: Franc Sarabia, Manu Alvarez & Pronovias.

Grainne Hull O'Neill of Architectural Spaces was drafted in to give Belladonna Bridal that new look and atmosphere. The brief was to create a space that would evoke comfort and calm in which to show wedding gowns and brides to their best advantage. The colour scheme was very important as Frances wanted strong colours to show the gowns at their best but it also had to be understated so as not to intimidate or overpower the customers. The calming shades of creams and yellows contrasted with the deep shades of the curtains and carpets hit the perfect combination for Frances. All the accessories are very elegantly displayed on the shelving as you pass through from the reception area to the fitting rooms.

The building and fitout was carried out by Ian Morrissey Carpentry.
